Editor's Note

Thanks to LouAnn Almquist for renewing her subscription.

The editors are moving, hopefully, beginning October 1, so please note the address change.

The roving reporter idea doesn't seem to be working very well in some cases, as I don't get summaries, or get them a long time after the event, so I may work out a system whereby next year people can sign up for dates, if they want to, and if they turn in their summary within a week, they get a dollar off their subscription. Any other ideas about getting more reader contributions would be great, haven't gotten any Pet Profiles, where are those proud mamas and papas out there.

FUNNY TAILS

Dog and Puppy

It is so amusing watching a new puppy come into a household in which the dogs have settled into a routine with each other. A puppy comes in and is totally oblivious to the normal dog-dog interactions. So on the first day at home, the adult is laying on the couch, the puppy comes bouncing up, the adult does his usual, lifts a tiny part of one lip, no teeth showing, the puppy happily keeps coming totally unaware that he's missed a signal, the adult jumps off the couch in confusion, gee that didn't work. The next day the adult is lying on the couch, the puppy comes bounding up and the adult not only curls the lip, but shows a few pearly's on one side, again the puppy just ignores this, again the adult leaves, then the third day, same situation the adult throws out the big guns, teeth, lip curl and a growl and the puppy backs off a little anyway. Three days later and the puppy still hasn't learned those signals, but he's trying to interpret. He comes bounding up to the adult, who lifts his lip and shows a whole row of pearly whites, the puppy looks at this, and says, Gee maybe he wants me to lick his teeth, so he happily obliges. The whole experience is very frustrating to the adult, who feels that no-one understands what he's trying to say but it is quite amusing to the owner.

Boasts and Brags

Charlie and Mighty Mite were off to another flyball tournament, anything to get away from that puppy! Charlie's Hit Squad B team actually came in first in their division, and lost no heats, they were in the third division down. Mighty Mite was a relief runner on the A team, in the first division and picked up 10 flyball points.
